ANGRY FATHER WOUNDED TWO

James L. Miller Shot Emil Siebrecker and Son,

MILLER'S SON HAD COMPLAINED

HIS FATHER TOOK UP THE QUARREL IN HIS BEHALF.

When He and His Boy Called on the Siebreckers There Was a Stormy Scene and Immediately the Shooting Occurred.

BY JAMES L. MILLER.

I shot to disable, not to kill. Siebrecker is a dead shot and could have hurt him, but fired only to protect myself.

A soldier before Vicksburg at 24 and an army scout in the far West for years, I learned to shoot straight and guard my life. I was destined in shooting Siebrecker. I would do it again.

Emil Siebrecker and his 14-year-old son, Arthur, were shot in front of their home, 357 South Chestnut street. Wednesday evening by James L. Miller, 357 Geyer avenue, who was his stepson, and Charles went to settle a boyish feud.

Miller's son was struck in the left hand. Arthur was hit in the left leg by a bullet from Miller's revolver.

The trouble settled with bullets started in play. The fathers fought to adjust the score.

Yesterday the two boys and a neighbor lad played "polos" on the shady sidewalk in front of the Siebrecker door. Arthur's side and yours entitled him to the star part. Young Miller proved to be an obstreperous brother.

He laid on the sidewalk and refused to be locked up.

Arthur, following police traditions, as he conceived them, fell upon his prison and beat him silly. Miller's glasses were broken in the melee and his spectacles were put out of joint. He fared better, though, and the old story is a mathematical mother.

The dispute was carried on through a half-door between Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Siebrecker until the complainant, Mrs. Miller, waited for her husband. She told Miller when he came home from work Wednesday morning that Mrs. Siebrecker had the door in her face.

MILLER, Senior,
Was Aroused.

Miller was a boy soldier in the civil war and an Indian scout on the Black Hills frontier and an ex-steamboat mate. Now he is a private watchman for the Consolidated Coal Co. He is small, but valiant. He has just returned from watching the river barges all night when his boy told his trouble.

He shifted his revolver around in his pocket, called his son and went down to the Siebrecker residence to "peaceably settle the fuss."

While Arthur Siebrecker was trying to explain matters, the senior Siebrecker ran up. He shouted at Miller and ran his hand in his pocket.

"I did it for a blunt," Siebrecker said afterward.

The effect of the bluff was instantaneous and exciting. The two men cleared away Siebrecker with a blow through the glass and was in full retreat, and his son, shot in the leg, lay on the sidewalk.

Miller walked off.

He was arrested by Patrolmen Hoppe and Symmes and held at the Soulard street station.

Neither of the Siebreckers is seriously hurt.

GIRL'S DEATH DUE TO FRIGHT

Miss Jennings Thought She Saw a Revolver.

DIED ALMOST IMMEDIATELY

BOYS WERE QUARRELING IN FRONT OF THE HOUSE.

She Screamed With Fright, Ran Into the Parlor, Fell on the Floor Unconscious and Did Not Recover.

Margaret Jennings, aged 15 years and 9 months, was sitting on the little front stoop of the modest dwelling of her widowed mother, Mrs. Jennings, 105 Elliston avenue, about 10 o'clock Tuesday night, when a crowd of negro youths living in the neighborhood turned into Elliston avenue from Mills street and proceeded noisily along the sidewalk.

Almost directly in front of where the girl sat they stopped, talked loudly and apparently began quarreling.

She thought it was a revolver. Jumping from the side of her aunt, Mrs. Kate Grannis, with whom she had been conversing in the house, exclaiming to her mother:

"O, they're going to shoot!"

She was evidently laboring under great excitement as she made the announcement. Her mother hurried toward the front door on hearing her cry, but before she reached the girl, she had fallen to the parlor floor unconscious.

Dr. J. C. Falk of 3701 Stoddard street, one block distant, was notified and responded at once.

But when he arrived the girl was dead. He worked on her an hour trying to revive her by means of artificial respiration, but without avail.

The grief of the mother and the other members of the little family was pitiful when they learned that life was extinct.

Many friends called Wednesday morning to pay their respects. The widow, her mother and two black-robed Catholic sisters lent their aid to comfort her.

"She died a good, healthful girl," Mrs. Jennings said Wednesday. "I fear the boys had a pistol and that frightened

"Such cases are most unusual, but I know there have been similar cases, though the girl before, and know nothing of what ailment she may have had. She did not look delicate."

JUDGE TALTY ISSUES WRIT

Circuit Attorney Folsom Summoned to Show Cause in the Buechner-Buckley Controversy.

An alternative writ of mandamus citing Circuit Attorney Joseph W. Folsom to show cause why he did not issue a writ of habeas corpus, was adjourned without expressing a preference between the numerous designs submitted.

One of the designs, submitted by Julian A. Martin of St. Louis, brings out the New York state will be represented at the World's Fair by such commissioners as I am sure will make a favorable impression on the proceedings undertaken there. It will be the pride of Illinois to put a splendid building and first-class exhibit upon the World's Fair grounds.

"Gov. Yates," said Mr. Brown, "has already suggested that Mr. Folsom, who will compose the World's Fair Commission of Illinois, each of them is active in commercial and industrial circles in Illinois."

WOULD SOLVE DEATH'S MYSTERY

WROTE VERSES ON CALENDAR

Timed Each Dose of Poison as He Swallowed It—Who Was William Chisholm and Whose Initiates Are "B. K.?"

An elderly man, known as William Chisholm, committed suicide at Ferguson Monday night, leaving a message which asserted that no one knew his name or home and that his daughter would get his life insurance if he were not heard from in five years.

"Does anyone know,
Can anyone tell,
Will the future be blissful,
Or will it be hell?

On another part of the calendar he had written:

"Weary, so weary of living;
Weary and ready to die;
I care not about the future;
And I'm going to give it a try."

Apparently, the man began taking laudanum before 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon and kept dosing himself with that drug, or with strichnine, until his death. He left the following memorandum, written on the calendar:

"11:15—Living. Will take one more dose, I don't care what it is. And if it does not work this time, I will try strichnine. At 11:45—will take one more dose of laudanum. If it does not work in 15 minutes I will try strichnine.

It is fate. Why don't it work? Just took one last look and will now take a dose of strichnine. At 11:45—if this does not work, I will try again. This is the last dose. I am a weak old man, and I must leave this world by the will of others. I depart by my own will forever. Good-bye."

All his possessions, a case of wine, women and cards. Fifty-nine years experience has taught me this. Good-bye."

The silk stockings appear to have been worn and passed through the laundry.

With the old man's treasure pair of woman's hose?

Coroner Armstrong held an inquest and rendered a verdict of suicide. The body was buried in the cemetery at Franklin.

Chisholm had been employed as houseman by H. C. Carr of Ferguson. A few days ago Robert E. McNamee of St. Louis issued the premises and moved to Chisholm's remained. He slept in a room in the basement of the center sex.

Chisholm, though probably 80 years old, was a full-weathered man. He wore a full beard, long hair and eyebrows turned grey. He weighed about 150 pounds and was of medium height.

Chisholm is to see some associates that he once was connected with a large government surveying enterprise. The suicide left one of them a note of warning and about a dozen pieces of spectacles.

He was alone in his room in the barn when he took the poison, which was too slow in action to subdue him. He had swallowed his heavy breathing after he had swallowed the final potion. He was past all, and just at midnight went to solve the mystery:

"Does any one know? Can any one tell?"

CANARY FOR MRS. M'KINLEY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 15.—"Missouri Dick," the canary bird that can whistle "Yankee Doodle" is to be returned to its old home at St. Joseph, Mo., his former owner, C. T. Donovan, having bought him back from Mr. Hedges for $100. Mr. Hedges bought the bird for the city for $100.

Last week Mr. Hedges received a letter from Mrs. Donavan offering her services to the bird. Mr. Donovan said it was his intention to present the bird to the wife of President McKinley to gladden her sick room in Canton.

"I accepted the offer," says Mr. Hedges. "Does any one know? Can any one tell?"

MR. CUMMINGS WON THE PRIZE

He Was Awarded $50 Bill Given Away by the Famous.

The east side of Broadway, from Morgan street to Franklin avenue, was a tossing sea of straw hats between noon and 4 o'clock Wednesday.

Famous was giving $50 for a single straw hat.

"Are you the man with the $50 bill?" was the question that the wearers of these hats asked of every man who emerged from the doors of the great store.

Fe. had advertised that it would give $50 to any man wearing a straw hat with a straw hat on the head, and a straw hat on the representative of the above question.

Harriet Hubbard Ayer and Margaret Rathbone Kent will give health hints and advice on knotty problems in etiquette.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 19.—The conference of "Reform Forces," which wound up in the next thing to a row yesterday afternoon, resulted in opening a new chapter respectively to his wife.

"Do you know this man was a burglar when you first met him?" asked the judge of the witness.

"Yes, sir, that is all I know," replied the burglar, "but I have seen him and recognized Ambrose at once as the pious burglar who had been written about in the Post."

"What do you know about his life?"

"I know he was a preacher. He exhibited a Bible to add color to the story. That gave me a suspicion, but I did not say anything."

RAILWAY DEALS ARE COMPLETE

No Further Consolidation Is Contemplated.

NO INTERCHANGE OF STOCKS

CO-OPERATION AND COMMUNITY OF INTEREST ARRANGED.

Under the Binding Agreements Made the Great Capitalists Will Act as Arbitrators Between the Different Lines.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Far-reaching plans involving the pacification and harmonization of the great railroad systems in the West and Northwest have practically been completed. On very high authority it may be stated:

First.—That there will be no further consolidation or passing of legal control of great railroad systems of the West.

Second.—There will be no interchange of securities.

Third.—There will be no change in the legal status of the St. Paul and the Northwestern systems.

Fourth.—The great capitalists now in control of the Union Pacific group, the Northern Pacific group, the St. Paul system and the Northwestern system have consolidated and solidified the community of interest plan, and while not acting as a syndicate, or committee, will co-operate in a manner which will preserve peace. The arrangements will be similar to those of the old-time "gentlemen's agreements." The great capitalists will be in a measure a party to both.

Much has been heard within the last few days of a consolidation of the Union Pacific, the St. Paul road, with the Chicago & Northwestern also interested. It was stated that there was to be a purchase of the control of the St. Paul by the others, and that the St. Paul and the Chicago & Northwestern in the pursuit of the community of interest would be consolidated.

This is authoritatively learned, is not contemplated, but, on the other hand, the St. Paul road will be acquired by the syndicate of arbitrators who will fully insure the harmony of interest plans so nearly related.

The roads which will enter under the control of the central movement are the Union Pacific, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Chicago & Northwestern on the one hand and the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern, the Burlington, the Great Northern and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy on the other. The two largest systems are the Northern Pacific and the Northern. It is expected that when the names of the Northern Pacific's new directors are announced the full significance of the present far-reaching plans will be fully understood.

COULD NOT WOO

A Goddess That Would Not Be Won.

The Creator, in making so many kinds of people naturally made some that have immense ambition and desire for work, physical and mental. Authors, writers and brain-workers are generally hard working people, frequently they exhaust vitality so fast that they cannot rebuild.

Food experts have perfected special foods called "Grandmama" for workers. The workers selected from field grains the proper elements which naturally enter into rebuilding brain and nerve centers.

A famous woman of West Haven, Conn., whom perhaps you will recognize because of the location, but who requests that her name be kept from print in this connection, writes: "Perhaps you would like to know of my experience with the restoring power of your wonderful Grape-Nuts Food. I have been a tireless worker. Life was full of possibilities. I had a constitution of iron and why not work. I lived to the fullest limit with ardor, painting, poetry, writing of books, journalism and the like."

"The days were passed in literary work and night at concerts, theaters and receptions. I suddenly dropped out, a mental and physical wreck. Ambition died and hope went with it. Religion became odious. The world grew dark. It became a 'Charnel House full of unclean bones, not Godlike and our Fathers'."

"I had no desire for food. I could not woo the Goddess Sleep that knits up the raveled sleeve of care. I contemplated a weak solution, a leap into the Unknown, when one day a friend in Yale, who knew my deplorable condition, said, 'Do you know their Grape-Nuts Food has done a great deal for me?' and told the details. I finally followed his suggestion and began using it. That was one year ago. I wish you could see me now. The neighbors say I do the work of ten women. I go to bed with the hens and sleep like a top."

"I hear the breezy call of incense-breathing morn, my muscles are like iron, and my back of steel. I am as alert as the sparrow with whom I converse every morning as he seeks his matinal worm."

"I take all this change, and justly, to Grape-Nuts Food and wisdom in the economy of force."

There is a good, sound reason for such a change as described above. Grape-Nuts Food is made of the selected choice of wheat and barley that are intended by nature to rebuild the soft tissue matter in the brain and nerve cells throughout the body. This food is so prepared that it presents these elements in perfect condition for immediate assimilation. The food is thoroughly cooked at the factory, and should always be served just as it comes from the package with a little cream. Do not attempt to stew it, but serve it without cooking except when combined with certain puddings and desserts, and even then the cooking is not necessary except to prepare the other ingredients aside from the Grape-Nuts.

STATE UNIVERSITIES,

The rapid growth of endowed colleges by means of enormous private benefactions has distracted public attention from the state universities, which are growing even more rapidly in importance and influence.

President Draper of the University of Illinois devoted his baccalaureate address this year to this phase of educational progress.

In the middle West there are 15 state universities with an aggregate income of $3,421,992. They employ 1,144 teachers and have a registration of 22,732 students.

President Draper claims that the requirements for entrance at these colleges, range of studies and strength of equipment compare favorably with the best privately endowed institutions.

The revenues of the state universities are steadily advancing and their development is continuous. The taxing power of the state is their endowment, the best, in President Draper's view, that can be had.

The subject is entitled to more attention than it gets. Education pays for itself many times over. It may be questioned whether a policy much more liberal than any ever practiced or thought of might not be pursued to advantage. At any rate, the people of states ought to be as generous as the occasional millionaire.

The coming Fourth of July procession in St. Louis promises to be of extraordinary length. It may prove to be the most elongated as well as the most patriotic host the city has ever seen in marching order.

MANUAL TRAINING EXHIBIT.

Those who saw the exhibit of the Manual Training School Tuesday, or the picture of the engine made by the students, printed in that day's Post-Dispatch, must have been impressed by the desirability of extending this form of education more generally in our public schools.

To impart to boys the ability not only to make such things as were exhibited, but to make them understandingly, is a triumph of educational effort. The effect of manual training is that its beneficiaries can actually make things. They can create objects of prime use. And they are taught the principles that underlie such creation. They are no rule-of-thumb bunglers if they have profited by the course of study.

Such education as this should go hand in hand with the unfolding of the higher intellectual faculties through the use of books, lectures, art and music. In this way the complete man is evolved. It is true education.

A GOVERNMENT LOTTERY.

When Uncle Sam was young he lived from hand to mouth. That was before he settled down and became steady in his habits. He had to get money some way and so he ran a lottery. The lottery was soon an established government institution. The man who bought a ticket felt the same sort of patriotism as the man who pays his government tax today.

Now Uncle Sam has become so rich that he has great wealth to give away. So many of his nephews have claimed a share of this great gift which he has promised them that he has decided to run a lottery just for one day as he did when he was one of the boys among the nations.

The attention of the entire country will be turned on this lottery. Chances will be paid for. Tickets will be bought for $14 each, but all those who do not draw prizes will get their money back. The lots will be drawn at Washington under government direction. There could be nothing more interesting than the story of this government lottery drawing as it will be told in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

"The Fourth district is one of the worst in the city, and an officer takes his life in his hands nearly every time he goes out to make an arrest," says the Acting Chief of Police. There should be no such districts in St. Louis. Thorough policing and prompt enforcement of the laws would make life safe in all parts of the city.

KNOW YOUR CITY.

In Tuesday's Post-Dispatch there was a map of the Suburban railway system, with full information about its divisions, where they run, where transfers may be obtained and the time tables. This is the first article of a series giving full information about the street car lines of St. Louis, which the Post-Dispatch will print for the benefit of the public.

The street car system of St. Louis is one of the largest and most comprehensive in the world. It embraces about 450 miles of track running in every direction from the river into the county. Within the past two years many changes have been made in the system and several additions built. Summer gardens have been constructed on nearly all the lines.

Every resident of St. Louis ought to be acquainted with the street car system for convenience in traveling from one part of the city to another and for pleasure in cutting trips by an array of names of capitalists.

to the resorts and places of interest in the city and suburbs. During the World's Fair period, when many strangers will be in the city, information about the street car lines is especially useful.

It is a good thing—good for yourself and your guests—to know your own city thoroughly. The Post-Dispatch gives you the key. We especially recommend a study of the maps and articles to street railway employees.

Ex-Gov. Pingree of Michigan, who died in London Tuesday, was a man of sterling character, whose private and public careers were without blemish. With him a word was always followed by a deed, and he never shirked the practical application of his theories. During his term as Mayor of Detroit he accomplished many reforms, fighting them through against huge financial interests and overcoming the almost solid opposition of the most powerful classes in the city. He was shrewd, but he was forceful. A man of ideas, he disregarded many of the conventionalities of life and went straight to the marrow of the question in hand. Mr. Pingree was a typical American. In strength of character and practical intelligence he was a representative man.

THE MUNICIPAL CLEANLINESS CRUSADE.

The Cabanne Club was the first organization to take up the work. The North St. Louis Citizens' Association and the Southwestern Mercantile Association promise to fall in line. President Crone of the former and President Disterle of the latter told the Post-Dispatch Tuesday that they heartily endorsed the movement and would introduce resolutions in their respective organizations providing for active co-operation with the municipal authorities.

Thus the work of cleaning up the city will soon be started by influential organizations in the west, north and south.

There will be a friendly rivalry between these sections for the first place in municipal cleanliness.

Why do not the central business organizations take up the work? The merchants and manufacturers must co-operate in order to secure a thorough municipal cleaning and to keep the city clean. The standard of cleanliness must be fixed by the people and the authorities held up to the standard.

When the people of St. Louis make up their minds that St. Louis shall be clean in streets, alleys, sidewalks, atmosphere and water supply and act accordingly, municipal cleanliness will be assured.

The first new wheat from the Indian Territory and the first watermelons from Texas reached St. Louis on the 17th. Necessities and luxuries alike make early dates for the Mississippi Valley metropolis.

DISCIPLINE AND SHIRTS.

Lady teachers of the Binghamton, N. Y., High School charge that the wearing of shirtwaists by boys tends to negligence and laxity in discipline. The idea is that a boy in his shirtwaist feels so free and easy that he will break the rules more readily than when wearing a coat.

Have these ladies even thought of how Jack Tar is attired, on a battleship, at the time when negligence is farthest from his thoughts and discipline is at its strictest? The sailor boy has not only shed his jacket or sweater, but his shirt also. Yet he is alert, jumps to obey orders, and is a perfect example of discipline.

Is not the fault in the school authorities rather than in the mode of clothing of the pupils, if discipline is relaxed? Why not allow young people to be comfortable, while insisting that they do what is expected of them in preserving the order that is essential in a school?

The plan for a $600,000 Irish exhibit at the World's Fair, including a permanent Irish building, will interest the sons and daughters of Erin in every part of the world. It is coincident with the movement for the revival of the Irish language, now so active. The Irish exhibit is likely to prove one of the most attractive that will be seen at the great Exposition.

Should Lord Russell be convicted of bigamy he will be tried, not by an ordinary court, but by the House of Lords. This seems absurd to Americans. It is undoubtedly wrong. A lord should no more be tried by the House of Lords than a Senator of the United States should be tried by the Senate. Britons never will be slaves, but they easily submit to inequalities.

Willie Benson, a boy preacher, aged 14, has been exhorting successfully at a Kansas City revival. It is the boy preacher rather than the woman preacher, who is to displace the old-fashioned minister. A smart boy preaches better than the most learned D. D. or the most earnest woman.

If ex-Senator Chandler declares, six words written in the Republican platform by Senator Lodge made Mr. McKinley twice President of the United States, it is very interesting, as these words had no reference whatever to the tariff, but promised to promote bimetallism.

The coming Fourth of July procession in St. Louis promises to be of extraordinary length. It may prove to be the most elongated as well as the most patriotic host the city has ever seen in marching order.

HOUSE GOWN.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Love is no respecter of persons. Marriage isn't near so much a burden to some men as it ought to be.

He is a poor innocent man with women who doesn't care for him.

The easiest way not to fall in love is to watch how easy other people do it.

There are three things that can always get the heart of a woman—political pickles and punctuality.

A pessimist is a man who believes that men are worse than women; an optimist is a man who believes that women are better than men—than men.

HOLLYHOCKS.

They're few admirers now-a-days, an' spring up here an' there Beside the kitchen winder or the long-forsaken winks! But the flowers come—though odorless an' homely as they are—No flower gits so near my heart as these same! We used to prize 'em back at home when flowers was more scarce. An' they're the same old, old notes they found in honored place.

They could not be dear to me, because they somehow bring Remembrance from its slumber-place an' once familiar ways.

What a joy to recollect 'ould be in the twilight sing—

Just Hollies, but seems to me, seen through my risin' tears.

They're smiles of the old, old, olden folks still livin' through the years.

WILL T. HALE.

NOT FOR HER.

He supplements this indignity by employing an orchestra to accompany the singing.

The two agitations proceed to the door of the young woman they are to serenade and begin their bombardment of fire.

It's hard enough on the woman in the case, but it is even harder on the neighbors. Such a serenade in Hawley, where the houses are a half-mile apart!

But at St. Louis a serenade of a chapter is a swell affair, consisting of a half dozen blocks, and it is continued until they become so loud that they probably cannot go to sleep before day.

It is impossible to stop the assault on the neighborhood quiet until it exhausts itself.

Then, to himself, said Bill: "I'll give 'em hell."

Then, to himself again: "I'll give 'em hell."

Suddenly the train lurched and the hiss of applied brakes was heard. The general manager knew they had the right-of-way and wondered what was happening.

There was some wondering going on in the cab, too.

Bill Smith was doing it.

When he reached the curve, 400 yards beyond, he was the little town of B., his eye instinctively glanced at the semaphore, although like the general manager, he knew that it was his.

"Good God," he groaned.

The signal indicated that another train was coming from the opposite direction with the right-of-way.

It was then that the train lurched, for Bill had set his brakes. The train was still, and stood to quickly.

But only for a second, for as soon as she could be reversed she was sent sailing back to B., where she was swerved.

Then Bill pulled his orders from his pocket and said: "It was right. He was right. They gave him an open track.

Then he became indignant and started out to see why the orders had been changed.

He hastened to the station.

The operator was asleep in his chair.

"What does this mean?"

"What does what mean?" yawned the agent.

"This full-track semaphore sign."

The agent rubbed his eyes and looked.

Then he smiled in a sickly way.

"I forgot to change it this morning."

A WORD ABOUT SERENADES

There is grave danger that the romantic, and amateurish, pastime of serenading, once lady love may be revived.

Symptoms of a recurrence of this ancient and honorable custom have recently been detected in various portions of St. Louis, and this manifestation has caused considerable alarm among peace-loving citizens.

There would be no need for a serenade if Cupid's promoters, if the lovesick young man would go to his inamorata's window, or the first balcony, or the first escape, as he happened to be—and sing of the imperishable troubadour.

Pitcher Murphy of the St. Louis baseball team positively refuses to qualify for the regular pitching staff of the Cardinals.

For the fourth time this season he was given an opportunity Tuesday to show the prowess that was supposed to be lurking somewhere within his frame, but the Pittsburghs, against whom he was so unfortunate to appear, made him look like a sub-student.

They hammered out 13 hits for 19 bases, the whole netting 9 runs.

Phillip for the Pirates allowed nine hits to St. Louis, but only two runs resulted.

His pitching appears in a poorer light because of the fact that a team of amateurs, the Homesteaders, defeated the Pirates Monday night in exhibition game.

After the opening inning, Tuesday, there was never a chance for St. Louis. The homesteaders had four runs, and Captain Donovan concluded that, as a stern chase is a long one and the chance of catching the little fellow very slight.

Murphy, as well take a full dose as a swallow and forced him to pitch the game out.

This was done partly because a double-header is to be played, Wednesday, at Philadelphia, and Powell and Harper will be pitched.

Murphy was scored upon in five innings of the game and gave abundant evidence that in his present form he hasn't the league caliber.

The game was uninteresting. St. Louis could not make the Pirates and the Pirates never lost Murphy.

Burkett distinguished himself and swelled his batting percentage by making three hits in the first at bat, one of the drives being a home run.

Hodrick made a good showing in the opposition and did well to get credit for a hit at the time at bat.

He also allowed a grounder to go through his legs while Clarke, the batter, went round the bases.

The loss of the game, while it interrupted the winning streak of the Cardinals, did not affect their record in the pennant race, as Philadelphia lost to Boston. The game at Philadelphia should at least result in an even break, and the local tribe will in that case still retain the lead.

In the recent descent of the eastern teams upon the western field, the record shows that the Cards are the worst.

The four teams, east of Pittsburgh, won 20 contests while the western aggregations captured 26—a proportion of more than 1 to 1.

The Cardinals and the Pirates were chiefly responsible for this, and the latter won 16 of 20 games and the former 9 of 12. Chicago secured 5 victories while Cincinnati could get but four on its own grounds.

Brockway notwithstanding his broken condition, secured the greatest number of victories for the invaders with seven games won, while New York was next with 6.

Harper's condition is not serious unless it has declined since his departure. Harper was ill in his birth town when he pitched last Sunday. But Donovan entertained no fears about his star twirler when he left St. Louis.

Harper is not used to the strain of being worked so frequently, and lamed up his side a bit by overdoing it. A few days ago he should have him back.

White has challenged Dr. J. W. Smith to a race on Saturday. White is listed to go in today against the Phillies. Even though he is not seriously affected it might be wise to postpone the race to Saturday to let him rest and run in Jones or Sudhoff it's Harper's place for this occasion. The blond pitcher is too valuable a man to take chances on.

The annual field day of the Woodward-Tierney Relief Society will be held at upper Creve Coeur Lake Saturday. The program consists of athletic events and novel.

The annual field day of the Woodward-Tierney Relief Society will be held at upper Creve Coeur Lake Saturday. The program consists of athletic events and novel.

Team representing the Field and Country club will play a golf match on the Field Club links Saturday. Play will be called about 2 p.m. Their match is the golfing event of the season.

Frank White has challenged Dr. J. W. Smith to a race on Saturday. White is listed to go in today against the Phillies. Even though he is not seriously affected it might be wise to postpone the race to Saturday to let him rest and run in Jones or Sudhoff it's Harper's place for this occasion. The blond pitcher is too valuable a man to take chances on.

The ghost of the 1900 St. Louis team is rising again from the past. Reports from Cincinnati tell of another escapade of two St. Louis players who were left behind in St. Louis when the team departed Sunday, because they had failed to catch the train. Their departure the next day is said to have been followed up by a fight with a streetcar on the train. In which the strangers were severely beaten. Powell and McGann are the alleged offenders.

The fans have hoped that, with the departure of Donovan, the original disturbance factor had gone. But now, at a time when the St. Louis team is in a fair way to do something for itself, those interested are dismayed.

If carousing and rowdiness are again to become features of the Cardinals, goodby to all hope of accomplishing anything.

The National League will follow the example of the American League in posting and placing their best men. The Boston American League team has drawn all the crowds in Beantown and the National has been forced to follow suit.

The move was significant of a general change along this line. The American League appears to be making money in certain ways at the price of it if it is able to exist, it is only a question of time when the big League will come to it.

The players will probably not welcome the change as anything that curtails receipts will certainly affect the salary list.

O'CONNOR IS NOW CHAMPION.

Irish Jumper Holds Title Formerly Held by Attorney Reber.

Peter O'Connor of Waterford, Ireland, now holds the title of champion broad-jumper of the world—a title once held by Attorney Charles S. Reber of St. Louis.

Mr. Reber acquired it at Detroit in 1891 by jumping 33 ft. 6 in. Mr. O'Connor, a few weeks ago at Ballardsbridge, Ireland, jumped 34 ft. 9 1/2 in., breaking all previous records.

Other big jumping feats were:

M. Prinstein, Syracuse University, at Philadelphia, April 25, 1900; distance, 34 ft. 7 1/2 in.

A. C. Krausen, Pennsylvania University, New York, May 26, 1899; distance, 34 ft. 4 1/2 in.

W. G. M. Newburn, Dublin, July 15, 1898; distance, 34 ft. 4 1/2 in.

M. M. Rosengren, Sydney (late of Galway), Oct. 5, 1896; distance, 32 ft. 7 1/2 in. C. H. Fry, Oxford, March 4, 1896; distance, 32 ft. 6 in.

KAISER SEES PEACE

MUSEUM IS FAVORED

EVENTS IN CHINA MEAN BETTER EUROPEAN FEELING.

SPEECH MADE AT CUXHAVEN

Pleased With the Growth of Germany's Merchant Marine and Urges All Hansa Cities to Work for a New Supremacy.

CUXHAVEN, June 18.—At the conclusion of the regatta which was given on board the American yacht Victoria-Luisa, at which Emperor William made a speech. His majesty told his hearers that he depended from recent events in China the guarantee that the peace of Europe was assured for long years to come. Because of the mutual saving and spirit of union which was created by the united action of the allied contingents. Among other things he said:

"There are more Germans go on the water, whether in yacht races or on voyages across the ocean, or in the service of the German navy. That the best proof for once the German has learned to keep an eye on the far horizon the pertinacity surrounding him in his daily life disappears."

After the Fair, it is to be used as an industrial and commercial museum for the display of the agricultural and industrial products.

Some members of the association believe that personal property is not paying its share of city taxes, and a resolution asking the legislature to tax personal property.

John S. Fontdexter urged the association to take the initiative in securing an elevated railroad for the city.

J. J. Schatz and Louis Landau reported that $300 had been subscribed toward the new St. Louis and New Orleans elevated railroad.

The next meeting of the association will be held July 18, when the Missouri Press Association will be the guests of the organization on a trip on the river.

"I behold the results of which China has been the scene, and of which the present return of the troops marks the end of a dangerous period. We are assured for long years to come for the service performed by the individual contingents, and called forth an appreciation of the mutual esteem and spirit of union which can only contribute to the maintenance of peace, and trust that profiting by the peace, Hansa will mark out a path for winning and retaining new trade outlets."

As the representative head of the Hansa, I can only rejoice over every Hanseatic man who goes forth with far-seeing gaze, seeking new points where we can knock in on our way to success.

Emperor William concluded with a eulogy of the director-general of the Hamburg-Bremen port, saying that the young man who has "gone out as a bold adventurer to make peaceful conquests whose fruits our grandchild will reap."

HENRY WILSON IS CAPTURED.

He Jumped Bond in 1897 and Must Answer Burglary Charge.

Henry Wilson, alias Nelson and Williams, a fugitive since 1897, when he jumped a bond to secure his appearance in the courts on a charge of burglary, was captured by Detectives George Williams and John McGrath at Eighth street and Franklin avenue.

In August, 1897, he broke into a house at 2040 California avenue with "Punch" Hackert. The housekeeper returned while they were there, and she gave the alarm, and the two men escaped through the rear door of the premises, pursued by a large crowd of neighbors and two hours belonging to a police force.

A newspaper reporter shot Wilson in the groin and he was taken by the police. Hackert was also captured, tried and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Wilson was released on bond and broke his obligation. He had in his possession a gun which was arrested Tuesday, a dozen new dash and liver paddocks and keys.

FAIR BUILDING TO BE USED

Plan Is to Make Structure Permanent and Exhibit State's Products and Resources in It.

Plans for making the Missouri State building at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition a permanent building, to be used as a commercial museum, were discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association.

The association voted its approval of the plan, and Gov. Dockery will be asked to cooperate in carrying it out.

The association's plan, as outlined by the Missouri manufacturers, is that the Missouri building be constructed of Missouri materials and made a permanent and fire-proof structure.

After the Fair, it is to be used as an industrial and commercial museum for the display of the agricultural and industrial products.

Some members of the association believe that personal property is not paying its share of city taxes, and a resolution asking the state legislature to tax personal property.

John S. Fontdexter urged the association to take the initiative in securing an elevated railroad for the city.

J. J. Schatz and Louis Landau reported that $300 had been subscribed toward the new St. Louis and New Orleans elevated railroad.

The next meeting of the association will be held July 18, when the Missouri Press Association will be the guests of the organization on a trip on the river.

"I behold the results of which China has been the scene, and of which the present return of the troops marks the end of a dangerous period. We are assured for long years to come for the service performed by the individual contingents, and called forth an appreciation of the mutual esteem and spirit of union which can only contribute to the maintenance of peace, and trust that profiting by the peace, Hansa will mark out a path for winning and retaining new trade outlets."

As the representative head of the Hansa, I can only rejoice over every Hanseatic man who goes forth with far-seeing gaze, seeking new points where we can knock in on our way to success.

Emperor William concluded with a eulogy of the director-general of the Hamburg-Bremen port, saying that the young man who has "gone out as a bold adventurer to make peaceful conquests whose fruits our grandchild will reap."
